

MUST CAPTURE THE PORT NOW

Japanese Are Making Desperate Efforts to Reduce Port Arthur at Once.

NEED ALL THE TROOPS ELSEWHERE

Siege of This Fortress Must End Quickly, So That Other Armies Can Be Reinforced in Pursuing Kuropatkin.

Paris, Sept. 24.—The Matin's St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs as follows:

"Telegrams reached the emperor at 4 o'clock Saturday morning. I can affirm that they concern Port Arthur, regarding which place the greatest anxiety prevails at court."

"The Japanese are now engaged in a general assault, which is more furious than its predecessors, attacking the town on three sides simultaneously and employing their whole forces, being determined to finish the business."

"Russian mines blew up whole battalions. Gen. Fock especially distinguished himself, directing the fire from the wall, which the Japanese reached after indescribable massacre. Squadrons are engaged."

"The whole of Admiral Togo's and Vice Admiral Kamimura's squadrons are aiding the struggle, which, it is feared here, will be final."

"The besieged forces are fighting as in a furnace. A perfect storm of shell is falling on the town, port and fortresses from the Japanese forts and readstead. Gen. Stossel is going from fort to fort encouraging the defenders in their desperate efforts."

"In St. Petersburg the facts concerning the tragic event, which perhaps will terminate by a glorious fall of Port Arthur, are wholly unknown. At court hope has not yet been entirely abandoned."

Japanese Near Mukden.

London, Sept. 24.—While authentic information from the seat of war is still very meager, it is evident that the forces of Field Marshal Oyama are but a few miles from the city of Mukden.

The report from Gen. Kuropatkin to the war office at St. Petersburg, in which he says that the Japanese have assumed the offensive from Bentshan to Fushun, which is on the railroad between Mukden and Fushun, about twelve miles from the former city, leaves no further doubt in the mind of the officials of the general staff that Kuropatkin will be forced to defend himself at Mukden.

May Isolate Russian Column. The Japanese movement near Fushun is regarded in St. Petersburg as an attempt to isolate the Russian column guarding Fushun, and that the main purpose of Oyama is to turn the Russian left flank.

A dispatch from Mukden says that General Kuroki has concentrated one army with Bentshanputze and Bentshan as its radius and his advance is pushing forward along the road leading to Fushun and Fushun. The advance forces of two other armies occupy the Yantai mines, the village of Yantai and Santanu. The front of these three armies is said to be protected by an outpost screen, which even the Chinese are not allowed to pass. A small Japanese detachment is reported moving along the left bank of the Liao river to protect Junka.

From all reports it is certain that Oyama has about arranged his forces for a general assault and reports from St. Petersburg convey the impression that the war office realizes Kuropatkin is in a trap and that he can not escape it without a desperate fight. It is even doubted if Kuropatkin will this time escape.

Japanese Bombardment Fierce. Chefoo, Sept. 24.—A Japanese who has arrived here from Dainy says that the battle which began at Port Arthur Sept. 19 continued Sept. 20, but he is unable to give any details of the fighting.

The Japanese further said that there were unverified rumors at Dainy to the effect that the Japanese had made some gains.

The bombardment of Sept. 19 began at 3 o'clock in the morning. At dawn the volume of firing increased to an extent hitherto unknown. During the fiercest firing the heavy guns were fired at an average of twice in one minute. Every window in Dainy shook.

RUSSIANS RETREAT FROM MUKDEN TOWARD HARBIN

Kuropatkin Dismisses Major General Orloff From the Service at Once.

Berlin, Sept. 24.—The Tiffl correspondent of the Tagblatt reports that General Oyama is driving the Russians at Mukden northward and has succeeded in turning Kuropatkin's flanks. The Japanese patrols of cavalry have reached the vicinity of Tielang Pass. The Mukden correspondent confirms the report that the Russian flanks were turned in the battle near Mukden. He says it became impossible for Kuropatkin to make any serious attempt to hold Mukden. The Russian army is now concentrating at Tielang. A dispatch from London received from the Central News correspondent at St. Petersburg states that the orders for Livitch to march from Vladivostok to Gen. San Korea has been countermanded and he is now ordered to go to Harbin. General Kuropatkin reports that no fighting is going on today. Major General Orloff who is held responsible for the retreat at Liaoyang has been dismissed from the army at the approval of Kuropatkin.

LIMITED MARRIAGES ARE TO BE THE FASHION

Londoner Predicts That Wedding Contracts Will Stipulate That Union Endure for Stated Periods.

London, Sept. 24.—A silly-season newspaper discussion of the marriage question has provoked a remarkable statement of opinion from Novelist George Meredith, who in an interview in the Daily Mail welcomes the discussion of the subject, though, as he confesses, "everything that ought to be said has been out in half." He predicts a change in the legal conditions of marriage and foresees a state of society permitting marriage for certain limited periods, the state enforcing a provision of money during that period to provide for and educate children, the government possibly taking charge of this fund. Mr. Meredith says: "There will be a great uproar before such a change can be made. It will be a great shock, but look back and see what shocks there have been and what changes have, nevertheless, occurred in the marriage business in the past."

Mr. Meredith foresees great difficulty in English conservatism, notably revealed in criticism of America, "indicating the Englishman's persistency in 'going' any new trait as a sign of disease. Yet," Mr. Meredith continues, "it is a sign of health and I am very glad if any words of mine can help air the subject."

Grandeur of Vesuvius.

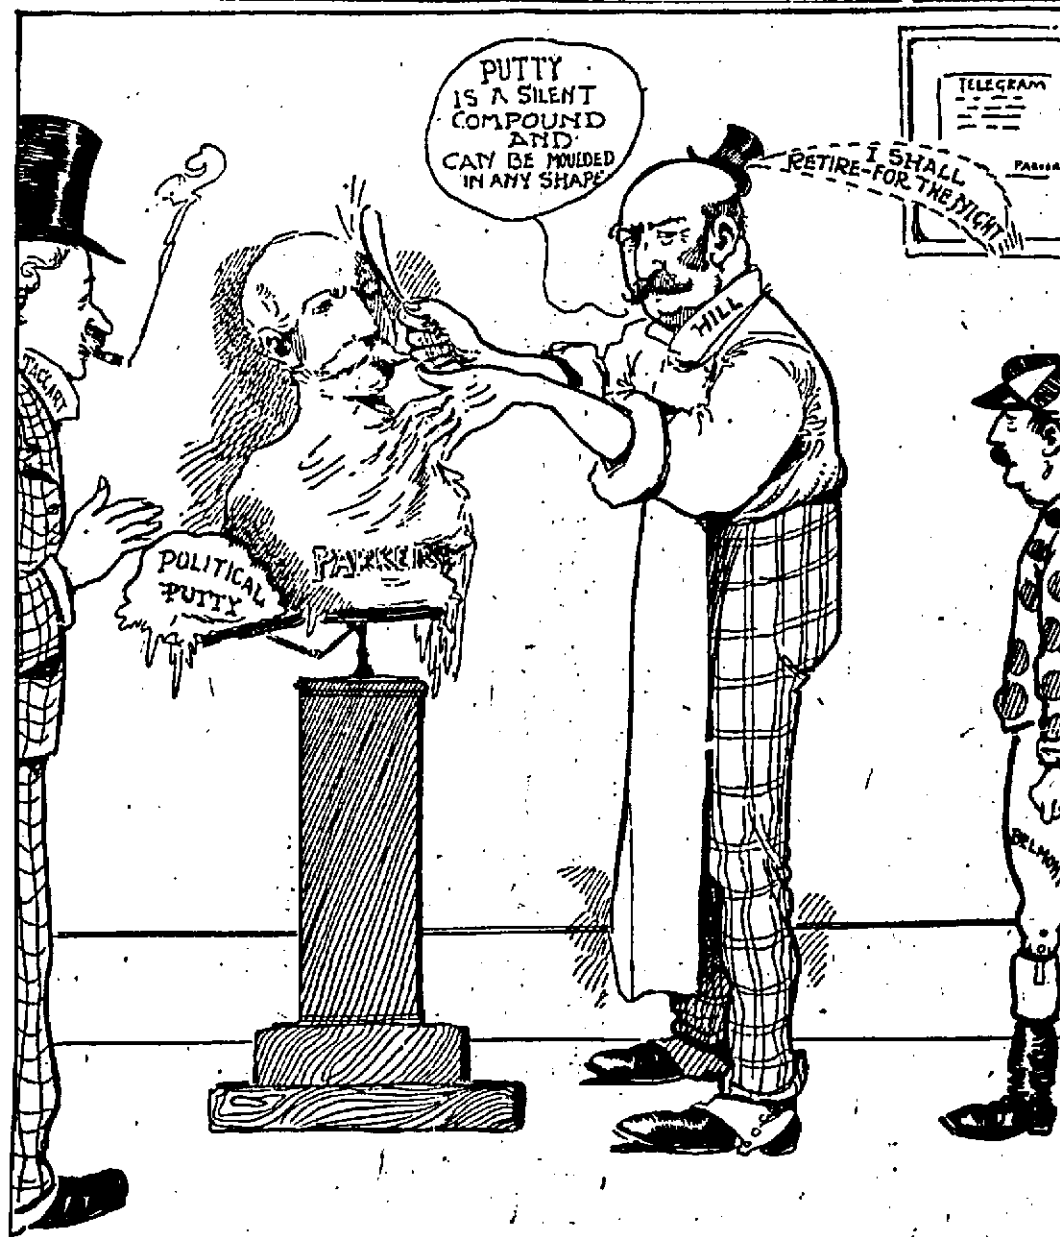

Naples, Sept. 24.—An eruption of Mount Vesuvius Friday night was the most spectacular witnessed in the last ten years. A great stream of lava was discharged, threatening wide destruction.

Labor Leader Opposes Strikes. Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Delegates to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen convention went into an uproar when Grand Master John J. Hannan declared he was opposed to strikes.

BUFFALO MAN INVENTS LONG-SOUGHT ENGINE

Rotary Machine Is Likely to Supplant the Present Style Locomotives on Railways.

New York, Sept. 24.—A perfect rotary engine, the much-desired achievement of hundreds of mechanical inventors, is the triumph which, in the opinion of eminent experts, has crowned more than a score of years' work by William M. Hoffman, a successful inventor of Buffalo.

A year ago P. T. Berg of Stockholm, Sweden, formerly of the Carnegie Steel company, and now consulting engineer for the United States Steel corporation, examined Mr. Hoffman's engine for Charles M. Schwab and made a favorable report on the inventor's claims. Cornelius Vanderbilt, several of whose inventions are now in use on the New York Central railroad, has declared that if the engine bears out the claim of the inventor it will send all the present style of locomotives to the scrap iron heap.

In brief, the advantages of Mr. Hoffman's engine are that it will occupy no more than one-fourth the ordinary floor space required for other engines of similar power; it will effect a saving of one-fourth in steam; it is economical in construction and operation, and it is without vibration.

"The problem of my invention," Mr. Hoffman said, "was to overcome friction of packing, and this I have done by what I consider a unique yet simple combination, consisting of revolving the cylinder around a stationary abutment. This stationary abutment does not come in contact with the inner periphery of the cylinder or the cylinder heads or walls, and the construction is such that the revolving piston makes a steam-tight joint on an elliptical abutment throughout one-half of a revolution of the engine when it takes the place of the piston which has been exposed to the steam pressure and performs the same function, the one in advance producing the steam-tight joint. In other words, the entire packing which produces joints fully as steam tight as the packing rings in reciprocating engines, is exposed practically to no wear and consequently no friction, as the packing all revolves with the cylinder and pistons. An evidence of the correctness of this claim is provided in the fact that my engine in Buffalo has been run for five hours without lubrication of any kind and without bad results of any description."

Discourages Honesty.

WHITEHEAD OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN

Talked to a Large and Enthusiastic Audience at Orfordville Last Evening.

The campaign of 1904 was officially opened last night as far as Rock county is concerned, by Senator John M. Whitehead in his speech at Orfordville. Accompanied by A. C. Baker, candidate from the first assembly district for the assembly, Senator Whitehead held a rousing meeting in a hall which was filled to the doors and spectators who even looked in and listened through the windows. Three hundred persons can be seated in the hall and every seat was filled last evening. Senator Whitehead greeted each of his hearers personally and during his address which took an hour and a half to deliver he had as interested an audience as could be gathered. Talking for his subject the primary law and its evils Senator Whitehead alluded upon the general conditions of the country and the necessity of a stable form of government. He will speak in the same hall two weeks from last night, taking for his subject the rate bill. This evening he is in Harmony where he will meet the leaders of this town at a social gathering, and the ways and means of conducting the campaign will be thoroughly discussed. During the next two weeks he will be in the northern part of the state, leaving Sunday night for La Crosse, and will deliver a speech, a night and four afternoon addresses in the interest of Senator Gavney, upon whom the La Follette faction is raging war. Later he will deliver several addresses under the auspices of the state central committee, returning to Janesville the first of next month. It is the expectations of the county committee to secure the services of two speakers of national reputation, to deliver a speech in both Beloit and Janesville, Col. Louden of Illinois, Chauncey Depew and Speaker Cannon of Illinois have been asked for and the national committee has promised to send of the trio.

LADY CURZON IS SINKING LOWER

Mother and Sister Sail for London—Will Be Informed of Condition by Wireless.

London, Sept. 24.—Lady Curzon passed a restless night; her condition is slightly worse this morning. New York, Sept. 24.—Mrs. Levi Z. Letter of Chicago and daughter, Miss Nannie, arrived here from Chicago at nine-thirty this morning. They immediately embarked on the Red Star line ship Vaderland which sailed a half hour later for Dover. They will be kept informed as to Lady Curzon's condition by wireless telegraphy as soon as they arrive within hailing distance of England.

FROST RUINS CRANBERRY CROP

Loss in Massachusetts Amounts to Thousands of Dollars.

Sandwich, Mass., Sept. 24.—The heavy frost has ruined a large part of the cranberry crop which remained unharvested in this section of the state. About one-third of the crop had been housed and of that remaining out one-half to two-thirds has been frozen. The loss amounts to thousands of dollars. The frost was the heaviest ever known in this section in September.

FOUND GUILTY OF ASKING BRIBE

Former Milwaukee Alderman Is Convicted by Jury.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 24.—In the municipal court, Judge Brazee presiding, a jury found ex-Ald. A. C. Welsborn guilty as charged of soliciting a bribe of $100 from Attorney F. J. Brochard in connection with the granting of a saloon license. His attorneys entered a motion for a new trial.

ACTIVITY FOR TRADE CIRCLES

Output and Demand More Encouraging to Men of Business Than Last Year.

LESS TROUBLE WITH WORKMEN NOW

Disputes Over Hours and Wages Have Disappeared, Leaving Better Feeling Between Employer and Employed.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 24.—The weekly review of trade in the Chicago district published by R. G. Dun & Co., the mercantile agency, is as follows:

"Business developments have been of an encouraging nature. A few industries are yet in a waiting attitude, but aside from these there appears more distinct activity in manufacturing and distribution. Wholesale dealings reached a satisfactory aggregate in fall and winter merchandise, retail sales reflect improved consumption, and there is enlarging demand at better prices for furance product. Marketing of cereals aggregates unusually high and indicates the extent to which growers are securing the benefit of prevailing profitable returns. Other classes of freight, especially general merchandise, show an advanced movement and railroad tonnage includes a wider variety of commodities."

Interior Buying. "Current buying for interior requirements is well sustained in the staples. Orders obtained come from many different sections throughout the west and southwest, and the Gulf trade exhibits gain. Cancellations have formed a slight percentage as compared with a year ago. Dry goods, headwear, woollens, and footwear were freely taken, and clothing, men's furnishings and cotton goods experienced a strengthened demand, bookings making a normal gain over a year ago. Conditions show steadiness in groceries, drugs and paints. The jobbing interests maintained firm price lists, and mercantile collections generally showed well, faltering being fewer in number."

Labor Troubles Disappear. "Hindrances in factory work due to labor disputes are gradually disappearing and more production is accomplished, employers readily finding hands when necessary to further operations. Now business of fair volume is seen in machinery, electric supplies and furniture, and output in these branches will be increased. The demand continued of good volume for heavy and light hardware and wire product."

"Broadstuffs exhibit a more assuring tone and market operations denote stronger domestic demand, particularly for wheat and flour. Production of the latter is less curtailed, millers being influenced by low stocks on hand and reviving export inquiry. Grain shipments, 5,206,690 bushels, are 10.1 per cent over those a year ago and thus far the heaviest this year. Compared with the closings last week wheat advanced $\frac{1}{8}$ ¢ per bushel, but oats declined $\frac{1}{8}$ ¢ and corn $\frac{1}{8}$ ¢."

Provisions and Live Stock. "Provisions acted under return to ordinary conditions and on firm buying values gained. In pork, 57 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ per barrel; in ribs, 47 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢; and in lard, 22 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢. Live stock receipts, 298,918 head, ran slightly over those a year ago. The values gained, in sheep, 30¢ a hundredweight; in hogs, 16¢; and in choice beefs, 10¢.

"Failures reported in the Chicago district number 24, against 25 last week and 30 a year ago."

SPOONER BRANDS ARTICLE AS ONLY A PACK OF LIES

Both He and Senator Quarles Will Answer the Steffens Article in a Few Days.

Madison, Sept. 24.—Senator John M. Spooner was an angry man yesterday. His colleague, Senator Quarles, was not in any too good humor. The cause was the article written by Lincoln Steffens for McClure's Magazine, a condensation of which was published yesterday. The article speaks highly of Gov. La Follette and passes caustic criticism of his party opponents, including the two senators. Of Senator Spooner Mr. Steffens wrote that he is the beneficiary of "bold bribery," declares that he has been a railway lobbyist, and is a product of the system that is fighting Gov. La Follette. There are many other charges of political corruption or worse, and all are credited to the "stalwarts."

"LIES," SAYS SENATOR SPOONER. "It is a pack of lies," was what Senator Spooner had to say of the article.

"It is a willful perversion of political history," was the manner in which Senator Quarles expressed himself.

The senators united in the statement that as soon as they could get around to it they would make a public utterance which would give their side of the situation. Until then they did not care to talk at any length on the matter.

"Yes, I read the review this morning," he said; "and will get a copy of the magazine at once. I will have a talk with Senator Quarles about the matter and will see what is to be done."

After he had read the magazine story the senator was called up by telephone and asked further as to the matter. "It is a pack of lies," was his answer.

WILL PREPARE AN ANSWER. It was suggested that some of the charges made were serious ones and could hardly go unnoticed, and the senator replied: "I know they are serious, and they will be answered properly. It will probably be a couple of days, however, before it can be done. When the answer comes, however, it will be conclusive. Just now there is nothing to say."

Senator Quarles, being asked at Milwaukee what he had to say regarding the publication, answered: "Nothing now. In a few days, however, an answer will be made public. I want to consult with Senator Spooner before I say anything, and as yet I have had no chance to talk with him. I will say, however, the article is a willful perversion of political history."

Whether the answer would take the form of a political speech, presumably by Senator Spooner, or a formal statement given to the newspapers was not stated by either senator. The inference, however, was it would be in the latter form. Both of them united in the statement the matter would not be allowed to pass over in silence.

WANT IMMEDIATE SATISFACTION. The two senators are quoted as thinking that is too slow a method of getting the facts before the public. They prefer quick action.

Speaking of Wisconsin politics while in Chicago Senator Spooner said: "I have never had any doubt but that the electoral vote of Wisconsin would go to President Roosevelt. Both wings of the party are united on that proposition. As to local issues no one can say. The courts will decide on the question of regularity between the factions Sept. 27. That decision will probably be final."

ANOTHER LETTER FROM WANDERERS

WHAT THE JANESVILLE PARTY SEE AT EXPOSITION.

SPEND DAY IN PHILIPPINES

Enjoy Sights To Be Seen at the Strange Continent From Across the Pacific.

At the World's Fair, St. Louis, Sept. 23.—It was just as we were approaching the Bridge of Sighs that leads to the walled city of the Philippine reservation that we met him. He wore a slouch white hat and a face that reminded me of the late St. Louis. He was tall, angular and stout and his wife, a patient meek little body, nudged along after him. It was clear that she was only an appendix and not even a vermiform one at that, for she was no trouble-maker. He had tried it on several of the uniformed young gentlemen known as Jefferson Guards but got no satisfaction, and so perceiving what he mistook for a look of intelligence upon our faces he inquired:

"Can you tell us where the gondola cage is?"

Man like John began fumbling the leaves of his "official guide" to locate the gondola cage, but with a woman's sympathetic intuition I quickly perceived that the old man from Arkansas had been imposed upon and I said:

"No; there is no such thing on the grounds as a gondola cage."

Whereupon a look of sadness came over his features as he said:

"Awful sorry to hear that, sir. We have a couple of rabbits at home and I promised the boys I would get them male and female gondola if they could be found."

And he was from New York state, not Arkansas.

Having sniffed the smoke of the Boer war it was hard to get John interested in the meek and docile Filipino, although Jane who had heard of their fondness for dog-meat and of their great aversion to clothing, was crazy to see them. And so peace triumphed over war. The Philippine reservation is a great exposition in itself worth coming thousands of miles to see. It cost over a million dollars, embraces 70,000 exhibits and covers a tract of 47 acres. More than eleven hundred native Filipinos are gathered in villages in bamboo houses built by their own hands, all illustrating the employments, diversions and social customs which they follow in their native land. The reservation is a combination of wooded hills, valleys and lakes and is impressively picturesque.

As we entered the Visayan village we saw a Filipino boy astride a water buffalo, called by the natives "timarao," riding toward us and the measured ding-dang-dong of many tom-toms fell upon our ears. The Filipino loves his tom-tom. He will beat it all day long. There are several varieties of this instrument ranging from the deep-sounding copper kettle-shaped drum to the wooden one with skin stretched over the head. There are groups of these tom-tom players all over the reservation scattered through the five villages of the Visayas, Moros, Bagobos, Negritos and Igorots.

The Filipino is musical clean through. The long stick with a knife on the end with which he digs holes for planting rice have bells in the top and is ornamented with feathers. While digging he makes music with the bells and he dances to the music. In the Visayan village we heard music by the Visayan orchestra of 15 pieces, as beautiful music as you could hear in Chicago or New York. Evidences of an advanced civilization are seen on every hand in this village. There are wood-carvers, mat-weavers, and makers of embroidered hats, canes and novelties. The bright-eyed, laughing Visayan maidens weave beautiful cloth with strands of pineapple fiber.

We were standing in the Bagoboo village and I noticed John's eyes were fixed upon a comely bare-chested maiden who was pounding a copper tom-tom. Every line of her superb figure was beautiful to look upon and every movement was graceful and captivating.

John refused to budge, he was glued to the spot. "Who is the young lady beating the tom-tom?" I inquired of one of the soldiers near by.

"That lady is a man," said the soldier. "His name is Hulton and he is chief of 2500 Bagobos. He is 19 years old and his hair is three feet long."

And we moved on toward the village of the dog-eating Igorots and the head-hunting Bontocs. T. A. D.

Dr. F. C. Lindstrom spent several days this week at Lake Kegonsa.

TELEGRAPH TO BE USED NO LONGER

Burlington Railroad Finds the Telephone More Satisfactory for All Purposes.

As rapidly as the change can be brought about the management of the Burlington Railroad has decided to substitute the telephone for the telegraph in dispatching and operating both passenger and freight trains. This announcement was made after comprehensive trials of the telephone had been made on various portions of several lines for several years. These trials have proven eminently satisfactory and under the system in vogue there has not been recorded a single instance of mistake in the transmission and receipt of train orders. This removes the main objection hitherto made to the use of the telephone for train operation, the objection of liability to mistake in transmission of orders.

The main tests have been made on the engine division between Savannah and Galesburg, Ill., on the Burlington, a distance of 100 miles, where freight traffic is exceedingly heavy, passenger traffic light and where the telephone has been used exclusively for about two years. For the period the telephone has been in exclusive use between Chicago and Aurora, a distance of thirty miles, where both passenger and freight traffic is very dense.

Between Hannibal and St. Louis, a distance of about 120 miles, where both freight and passenger traffic is heavy, the telephone has been used for some time as an auxiliary to the telegraph wires, the former being used in the operation of the block system and the latter in dispatching trains.

On the line between Alliance and Billings, a distance of 447 miles, the telephone has been in exclusive use for about three years. Between Chicago and Burlington all the connections have been made which are necessary to an exclusive use of the telephone whilst west of the division headquarters have been connected up with Burlington.

The advantage of the telephone as stated by the management are that it greatly enlarges the choice of men for the operating service. Thousands of good men can talk intelligently over the phone, where comparatively few can use the Morse code; it lessens the possibility of a strike and in the event of a strike makes it much easier to fill the positions. Complete records of all orders, are, of course, kept. From the amount of telephone installations being made on railway systems there is little doubt that the example of the Burlington will in time be followed by all lines.

NEWS AMONG THE SCHOOL STUDENTS

THREE CLASSES ELECTED OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR.

PHOENIX BOARD IS CHOSEN

Sophomore Football Team Practicing—Will Make Strong Bid for Denison Cup.

As customary the Senior class will give the incoming freshmen a reception this year. At the meeting of the seniors last evening committees were appointed and although no date has yet been set it probably will be on Friday or Saturday night. Two weeks from now this custom was established by the class of 1903 and it is the hope of those interested in the school that it will be perpetuated. It is for the purpose of getting the freshmen acquainted among themselves and with upper classmen, that they may reap the benefits of these associates. Those on the arrangement committee are Florence Maltby, Nellie Morris and Robena Keller. The decoration committee is composed of Harvey Bailey, Walter Carlo, Ethel Fifield, and Clara Jones. Lucy Fox, Grace Winthrope, George Caldwell and John Galbraith comprise the reception committee.

Class Officers
Meetings of all the classes except the freshmen have been held and officers elected. The senior officers are: President, Ruth Fifield; Vice-president, George Caldwell; Secretary, Harvey Bailey; Treasurer, Walter Carlo; and sergeant-at-arms, George Sennott. The Juniors have chosen president, Frank Phelps; vice-president, Alice Roherty; secretary and treasurer, Floyd Davis; Sergeant-at-arms, James Hoag. The sophomores held a meeting yesterday afternoon and selected, Fay Edgington, president; Myron Tracy, vice-president; Grace Bailey, secretary and treasurer; and John Fathers, Sergeant-at-arms.

Interclass Football

Again there will be a series of gridiron contests between the teams of the different classes for the Denison trophy cup. The two middle classes have elected their captains and the sophomores have already practised with a full team. The candidates and positions on the '07 team are as follows: 1. C. C. Connors; 1. t. Edgington; 1. g. Nott; 1. g. Burgess; 1. g. Owen and Clark; 1. t. Jensen; 1. e. Cassidy; 1. b. Howland; 1. h. Feeley; 1. b. P. Connors and 1. h. Tracy. The Juniors have selected Wright for the captaincy of the eleven to uphold the yellow and the white of 1906.

On account of the large expense entailed in publishing a manual, the Phoenix this year will appear as a monthly paper. The work of editing yesterday, editor-in-chief Julia Lovejoy; assistant, Frank Phelps; business manager, Jerome Davis; advertising editor, Earl Brown; chief editor, Corn Holt; girls athletic editor, Gladys Heitler; boys athletic editor, Harvey Lee. The yearbook and yearbook editors are yet to be chosen and will be elected by their respective societies from the junior members. The class and chat reporters will be selected by the different classes.

VARSITY TEAM IS TAKEN CAREFULLY

Coach Curtis is Gathering His Athletes Into One Compact Organization.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 24.—Coach Curtis has selected the men who will comprise the Wisconsin football eleven for 1904 and from now on the squads will be known as the varsity and second eleven. The coach made it plain that the selection is tentative and that unless the men chosen are able to hold their positions against the aspirants on the second eleven, changes will be made. The first eleven is as follows:

The competition for some places will still be keen. Cummings, Ekan, Franzke, De Lappe and Wraetz are doing attractive work at half-back and each of them will have chances in the early game. At quarterback Kuemstedt and Cecil Schreiber are not far behind Jones. Donovan, who has been playing left guard until the appearance of Bertke, will continue in the line until the big star of last year gets in shape for heavy work.

Coach Curtis greatly regrets the inability of graduate manager Kilpatrick to schedule a game for the badgers until October 8. The coach says it is undesirable for Wisconsin to be spending time at the rudiments while Chicago and the other universities teams are playing real football. Manager Kilpatrick is trying to get a good high school team to come here Oct. 1.

RUNAWAY GIRLS ARRESTED BY DETECTIVES IN CHICAGO

Annie Goedderz and Maud Arnold of Fond du Lac Come to Grief in the Windy City.

Annie Goedderz and Maud Arnold, the two girls who left their homes in Fond du Lac last week and were followed to this city by their fathers who immediately left for Chicago, where the police were notified of the affair and detectives soon gathered in the city, were composed of Annie Goedderz aged 14 years, who was accompanied by Ralph Afton, and Walter Holla aged 21 years. The quartet were all matrimonially inclined and would have been married had they not been taken in by detectives and placed in the central police station.

CLAIMS HE LOST $40 THURSDAY EVE.

John Heagney Complains to Police That He Was Touched by His Friend Tiffany.

Harry Tiffany of this city is now enjoying life behind the bars at the city lock-up, because he escorted John Heagney home Thursday evening, and Heagney claimed to have lost some $40 after he met Tiffany. The young man told the police that he knew nothing about the missing cash, and if Mr. Heagney had any such amount upon his person he was not aware of the fact at the time he took him home. Acting Chief Brown does not think that the evidence against Tiffany will warrant in holding the prisoner to the charge.

NOT AS FINE AS IT WAS PAINTED

Beloit Carnival Has Not the Great Advantages Deputed by Its Friends.

From all accounts the street carnival at Beloit has not been the howling success that it has been depicted. In fact, Janesville people who have gone down from here to witness the shows and see the crowds say that they are glad Beloit has the carnival and not Janesville. Many of the shows are not quite up to standard of church morality and the general character. The animal show is excellent and some of the attractions are the finest in the country. However, Beloit has suffered severely from petty thieving despite the vigilance of the police and the edict of Chief Scheibel that Janesville crooks stay away. Mayor Gault rose in his dignity Friday and officially ordered that the feather dusters dipped in acids used by the young roughs and tongs of the city to annoy pedestrians must not be used. Several persons have been injured by them and the general spirit of lawlessness they created caused the mayor to issue the order. One Beloit lady said she was afraid to go downtown after the noon hour owing to the rough element that crowded the streets. One young rough received all that was due him from a lady whom he annoyed and who resented the interference in a physical manner. Janesville was lucky.

COMPLIMENT THE HAYES BROTHERS

United States Trade Report Gives Them Well Merited Praise.

The United States Trade Reports, a magazine published in Cincinnati, has paid the Hayes Brothers a well merited compliment in its issue of September 24th. The article comes as a surprise to the Hayes Brothers and as such is more complimentary than ever. The article goes into detail the work necessary for contractors building steam or electric roads and says that after investigating the claims for good work by all the large contracting firms in the country it can recommend the Hayes Brothers of Janesville.

WATERLOO BANKER BEING SEARCHED FOR

F. K. Ryder Disappears—Searched for Here—Was Last Seen in Madison.

F. K. Ryder of Waterloo, Iowa, a member of the private banking firm of Ryder Brothers, is missing and the police of this city have been asked to look for him. He was last seen in Madison and had but fifty dollars on his person at the time he left home. He is thought to be demented.

The Matter With Kansas

William Allen White in Emporia Gazette.
Have you happened to notice the fact that there is no politics in Kansas this year? No one is talking politics on the trains; there are no street corner groups wrangling over the issue; no one gives a big red or a little blue tinker's dam for a political argument. No sort of exaggerated statement can provoke debate from the most excitable. It is all over in Kansas—shouting and all—Koosevelt is elected—Hooh is elected. The county ticket is elected. The calf's eyes is set.

Kansas is called excitable—but she is as calm as a basket of chips this year. Not a wave of trouble rolls across her peaceful breast. Eight years ago people were flocking into the Gazette stopping the paper. T. G. Whitley stopped it three times in taking the paper—insides and tops and all—without so much as a yip of disapproval. And when Whitley is saluted the world is smothered in goose-grease and is smooth all over. Light years ago the populists were going to reform the world at the next meeting of the legislature, and were carrying banners up and down the street denouncing Wall street, waving flags at the Octopus, and shaking sticks at the Gold Bugs. These were hot, happy and rambunctious days. A man could start a riot by reading the alphabet in a loud tone; produce a revolution by reciting the multiplication table in a dramatic manner, and get six months in the hospital by declaring for either of the ten commandments against the Chicago platform.

But now Kansas is as idle as a painted turtle on a plaster parlor log; placid as a hired man asleep under a hedge fence, and happy as a big sun flower that nods in all the breezes. The reason is that Kansas has paid her debts, has money in the bank, a clear conscience, and can organize in the parlor to give the pian a tone. Everything is lovely and the attitude of the goose is above timber line.

HILTONS ALL OVER AFTER THE MONEY

L. L. HILTON RECEIVES INQUIRIES ABOUT BOSTON PAPER.

NORTHAMPTON FINDS AN HEIR

Another Account of the Life of the Millionaire—Eastern Friends Look Up Relatives.

Since the publication of the article that the Hiltons of this city and Miss Daisy Hilton of Chicago were possibly heirs to the estate of the late John Thompson Hilton of Virginia city, L. L. Hilton of this city has received inquiries from Hiltons throughout the country asking in what Boston paper the advertisement for heirs appeared. One comes from A. Hilton of Alexandria, Louisiana, asking for a copy of the paper, the other comes from the Hampshire Gazette of Northampton, Mass., in behalf of Miss Anna M. Hilton of that city.

About the same article as was printed in the Janesville Daily Gazette of Monday, Sept. 12 was printed in the Hampshire Gazette on the following day. On Wednesday of the same week the Hampshire Gazette contained a long account of the probable right of Miss Anna Hilton to a share in the fortune. It says in part:

Miss Anna Hilton of 19 Center St., avenue, who is now and has been for the past four years employed in the store of A. McCallum & Co., may be one of the heirs to the vast fortune of over $20,000,000 left by John Thompson Hilton. She has every reason to think that her father, who died this spring was the only nephew of the immensely wealthy West-erner, and that her father had at the time of his death gone far in collecting the evidence necessary to prove that there was a close relationship between him and the man of the same name who died only a few years ago, but of whom he had heard nothing for many years. With the evidence which she has now and with certain other evidence which she hopes to procure, Miss Hilton thinks she can present a strong case toward proving that she and other members of her family are among those who ought to receive the twenty-million dollar fortune which represents the life-work of John Thompson Hilton.

Result of Publication

Miss Hilton and other members of her immediate family have known for some time a few facts in regard to the late John Thompson Hilton and his vast estate. But the facts which have been known to her were brought to her mind with considerable emphasis when she read in the Gazette Tuesday evening the dispatch from Janesville in relation to the matter which had caused more or less anxiety in the family circle. The appearance of this piece of important news in a newspaper published in her own town and within a few hundred yards of the house in which she is living, led Miss Hilton to decide that some further steps be taken at once for determining whether or not the multi-millionaire named in the piece was the man whom she thinks he was. The first thing decided upon was to determine the paper in which the advertisement referred to appeared, and the foreman of the paper, who she had not before had not passed before she had taken steps for finding out that important matter so that there might be something from which to start.

John Thompson Hilton

Very little is known of the John Thompson Hilton referred to in the news article. He was born in the town of Jefferson, Maine, and lived there for a few of his early years. While still a boy he had some trouble and left his home. Where he went, or what he was doing none of his family knew. Not a word ever came from him. Not a word was heard about him or any one whom the family would have been apt to consider as him, until a little over three years ago. At that time a man came from Boston, a man unknown to the family, went to Nevada and by some chance or mischance met John Thompson Hilton, a wealthy mine owner. They were talking about one thing and another when Hilton said to him, "You are the second Eastern man whom I have met out here." He then told something about his family history and mentioned the names of some of his relatives and the places in which they were living when he last knew anything about them. That was all there was to the meeting. But the man from the east did not forget the man whom he had met or the story which he had heard. The more he thought of it the more it seemed to him that he ought to make an effort to notify the relatives of Hilton. So he wrote to the family of Miss Hilton—who were then living in Whitefield, Maine. He told all that he was able to tell about John Thompson Hilton. The father of Miss Hilton, Amos Hilton, began an investigation. One of the first things which he learned was that the Nevada man was dead and that there were no children to claim his estate. So the investigation took another track. As the long lost uncle was dead, there was no necessity for taking any further steps for locating him. The work in hand from that time on was to show that there was relationship between him and the Hiltons living in the east.

Amos Hilton, Nephew

Amos Hilton devoted considerable time to looking up the available records and made some progress toward showing that the John Thompson Hilton who had died in Nevada was his uncle. A few facts were discovered, but there was considerable difficulty because of the fact that the records of birth were not kept years ago with the same exactness as they are at present. But aside from the matter of birth there were certain other facts which were available. "Amos Hilton, the father of Miss Hilton, died this spring at his home in Whitefield, Maine. He left some memoranda in regard to his uncle. These papers are now in the possession of Miss Hilton. Should it turn out that Miss Hilton and her relatives can prove that they are the heirs to the fortune left by the Nevada millionaire, there will be probably thirty persons among whom the money will have to be divided. But even at that, there will be a good sum for each one.

Millionaire Was Stubbhorn
The only explanation which has been offered for the long silence which John Thompson Hilton maintained toward his family is that he was a stubborn man, who had left home in his young days because of some fancied wrong and that he never could persuade himself to relent toward his relatives. His brother Amos Hilton, father of Amos Hilton and grandfather of Miss Hilton was a man of peculiarly staunch and stolid disposition. He, like his brother, died possessed of a large fortune.

PARCEL POST TO NORWAY ORDERED

Postmasters Are Notified of the Requirements and Arrangements That Have Been Made.

Official announcement has been received of the establishment of a parcel post between this United States and Norway to go into operation on October 1. The parcels must not exceed $50 in value, must not weigh more than 4 pounds, 6 ounces, or 2 kilograms and they must not measure more than 3 feet 6 inches in length and girth combined. The postage rates will be as follows: Upon parcels sent from the United States to Norway, 12 cents for each pound or fraction thereof, and in Norway on parcels to be sent to the United States, 60 ore for each half kilogram (18 ounces) or fraction thereof. A delivery charge not to exceed 5 cents in the United States or 20 ore in Norway may be collected. The parcels-post mail for Norway will be made up at the New York office.

Politicians and business firms wishing to mail more than 2,000 identical pieces of third and fourth-class mail can do so from now on without taking pains to "lick" a stamp on each piece. Order No. 1,052, which provides that the postmaster may accept cash from individuals and firms who will comply with the provisions requiring among other things that each piece be stamped with "paid in money."

Letter to Wm. Gunn, Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: Mr. N. N. Nerey, Dehl, N. Y., houses exactly alike, and painted them: one Devco lead-and-zinc; the other barytes-and-zinc. He paid same price for both paints.

He used six gallons of lead-and-zinc, 12 gallons barytes-and-zinc.
He paid $18 for painting lead-and-zinc, $36 for painting barytes-and-zinc.
The total cost of the lead-and-zinc job was $27; the total cost of the barytes-and-zinc job was $54.

He didn't know he was buying bar-ytes; the dealer told him that paint was good as Devco.

A fair example of how it generally comes out, when you buy something just as good. Better go by the name, and the name is Devco.

Yours truly,

had trouble with my kidneys for many years. It consisted mostly of a lame and aching back, and there were occasions when I had such severe attacks that I could not get out of the house for two or three weeks at a time. I was then practically helpless for it was painful to move.
At other times it assumed a milder form, being a dull aching across my Leaves Institution Embarrassed.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 24.—F. K. Ryder, an official of the Bank of Waterloo, has disappeared. He was last seen in Madison Tuesday. A meeting of the creditors of the bank, was held and the bank was pronounced solid, although temporarily embarrassed.
Even if it should go into the hands of a receiver it could pay in full. The majority of the creditors oppose any bankruptcy proceedings at present.

My Breath.

Shortness of Breath
Is One of the Commonest Signs of Heart Disease.

Notwithstanding what many physicians say, heart disease can be cured.
Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure has permanently restored to health many thousands who had found no relief in the medicines (allopathic or homoeopathic) of regular practicing physicians.

It has proved itself unique in the history of medicine, by being so uniformly successful in curing these diseases.
Nearly always, one of the first signs of trouble is shortness of breath. Whether it comes as a result of walking or running up stairs, or of other exercises, if the heart is unable to meet this extra demand upon its pumping powers—there is something wrong with it.

The very best thing you can do, is to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. It will go to the foundation of this trouble, and make a permanent cure by strengthening and renewing the nerves.
I know that Dr. Miles' New Heart
Cure is a great remedy. For a number of years I suffered from shortness of breath, another spells, and pains in my left side. For months at a time I would be unable to lie on my left side, and I lay flat on my back would nearly suffocate. A friend advised using Dr.
Miles' New Heart Cure, which I did with good results. I began to improve at once, and after taking several bottles of the heart cure the pains in my side and other symptoms vanished. I am now entirely well. All these dreadful anxiety spells were a thing of the past. I feel that I have been cured.
If the first bottle does not help you,
the druggist will refund your money.

TRY SEVEN BARKS

COSTS YOU NOTHING IF IT DOES NOT PROVE TO BE THE BEST REMEDY YOU HAVE EVER TRIED FOR AILMENTS OF THE

STOMACH, BOWELS, LIVER AND KIDNEYS

YOUR HOME DRUGGIST MAKES THE GUARANTEE

This remedy is purely vegetable and easy to assimilate. The doses are small and pleasant to take. It is prepared from the original formula of Dr. Franz Gauswahn, of Welsbaden, Germany, who was, until his death, one of the world's most successful and noted physicians. Thousands of families for three generations have been recommending this wonderful preparation in all the highest terms.
If your digestion is impaired, if your liver is sluggish or blood is impure, "Seven Barks" will surely effect a speedy cure, as it cleanses, flushes and tones up the whole digestive and drainage system in a thorough manner, leaving Nature to do the rest, which it will.
We cordially invite our friends and customers to call and get a bottle of this highly meritorious remedy. You may deposit 50 cents for a bottle of "Seven Barks" as evidence of good faith. Try it as directed, and if found unsatisfactory, we will cheerfully refund your money. Or, if you cannot secure the small amount we ask on deposit, come anyway and we will take all the risk. What we want is to introduce this remedy among our friends and customers where it is not known.

CARDUI BABIES

Many homes are more lonely abodes because no children are there. Barrenness exists in almost every case because female diseases have paralyzed the organs of womanhood.

Wine of Cardui imparts health and strength to the diseased parts and makes motherhood possible in thousands of cases where barrenness is supposed to be incurable. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow and also prevents miscarriage and cures bearing down pains.
Wine of Cardui removes the cause of barrenness by making the female organism strong and healthy.

Go to your druggist and secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui.
The use of Wine of Cardui will bring happiness to your home.

My daughter-in-law, Lizzie Giles, found great benefit in Wine of Cardui. She had a miscarriage in March 1901, before using your medicine. She was in very bad health, so I persuaded her to try Wine of Cardui. Since then she has had a fine baby boy. Soon she will be three weeks old. She highly recommends Wine of Cardui.

My daughter, Fannie Hudson, also has a fine baby boy by your treatment. She highly appreciates Wine of Cardui.

VERDICT OF THE PARTY

From the report of the Committee on Credentials to the REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION, which was unanimously adopted by that convention, June 23, 1904.

Your committee report it to be their final judgment that the convention which elected said John C. Spooner, J. V. Quarles, J. W. Babcock and Emil Senech as delegates at large, and their alternates at large, to this convention from the state of Wisconsin WAS THE REGULAR CONVENTION OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN WISCONSIN, and that the delegates elected by it are the regular elected delegates at large from the state of Wisconsin to the republican convention, and, as such, are entitled to seats in this convention.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

"If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon or make a better mousetrap than his neighbor, though he built his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

Out in the little town of Whitewood, S. D., lives a man by the name of Robert Carr. He is the editor of a country newspaper called the "Jawbone" and the choice sentiment of Ralph Waldo Emerson expressed in the paragraph quoted, is the motto adopted by Mr. Carr, and carried at the head of his editorial columns.

The editor of "Western Publisher" had a curiosity to know something about the "Jawbone" so he wrote to Mr. Carr and asked him why he adopted the name. The following characteristic reply was received and it contains so much good, common sense, that it is worth reproducing.

Whitewood, S. D., June 29th.

My Dear Byron:

Now I will lead you gently aside and tell you about the "Jawbone." Several cruel men have insinuated that the "Jawbone" is rightly named, being of a truth the jawbone of an ass. I wish people would quit judging me by their own standards. Anyway, if you remember, one Samson ran across a new jawbone one fine afternoon and he picked it up. There being a bunch of Philistines loafing around that neck of the woods Sam just naturally goes in and lays out about a thousand of them with the jawbone. You know that Samson did not love the Philistines because they were worshippers of the golden calf and all other kindred fakes. Also you will remember that water was made to come out of the jawbone and Samson drank and was refreshed.

The jawbone is the symbol of Truth and with it any man can slay a thousand false ideas. My little monthly publication is devoted to the work of slaying the Philistines. Whether I will be able to make any impression on them I do not know. But I do know that I am doing my best to suggest to people the better way. I desire to create a hypocrisy and can't. I desire to add a little to the world's desire for good. And with my little "Jawbone" I hope to occasionally bowl over some Philistine. At this day and date men give little heed to anything but the dollar. It is money, power, appearances and selfishness. It occurs to me, and I am no latter day saint, either, that it is time men were paying some attention to their character, and the sum and substance of my belief is as follows:

If we sin we have to pay the penalty.

If we do not sin we have no penalty to pay.

Hence it shows that a man lacks even business judgment when he sins.

Such is the bare outline of the purpose of the Jawbone.

You may notice in the little paper that there are some very plain things. You will also remember that Samson did not say to the Philistines, "Excuse me, gentlemen, I am afraid this is going to hurt you." No, he simply went to work altering the contour of their faces and then went his way.

But let me tell you that I am no Samson. Intellectually or physically, but thank whatever powers that be, I love a clean, honest and upright man and hate a sullying hypocrite. And of the things I say in the Jawbone I have no apologies to make. If it gets too hot I can take to the woods and perhaps the jack rabbits will understand me, if humanity does not.

Sincerely,
BOR.

Mr. Carr gives a valid reason not only for the name of the publication, but for his purpose as well. He says that "The Jawbone" is the symbol of Truth and with it any man can slay a thousand false ideas.

That is a mission worthy the ambition of any conscientious publisher, and Mr. Carr is evidently trying to faithfully fulfill the mission. He believes in the inflexibility of moral law, and when he says

"If we sin, we have to pay the penalty," he utters a truth as old as time itself, and yet a truth that is disregarded by the human family, more completely than any other law that was ever written.

The laws of nature are so uniform and so thoroughly established that no one questions them, however, much he may rebel. The farmer understands that the harvest is dependent upon seed time, and that if he enjoys results he must work in obedience to nature's laws.

The same truths apply to the Kingdom of character, and this is what the editor of the "Jawbone" attempts to develop.

There is a seed-time in the realm of every life, and a harvest that follows with the same monotonous certainty that the night follows the day.

It is no uncommon thing in riding through the country to notice a field grown up with weeds which have gone to seed. Nature is not responsible for the crop. The same sunshine and rain which blessed surrounding fields fell on the neglected soil, and it responded to the touch, but noxious weeds were the only thing to respond because no other seed was present.

An old man went reeling along the street the other day. He was feeble from the weight of years, and the load he was attempting to carry was too much for him. Unkempt in appearance and manilla from drink, he was the picture of a man who had gone to seed from neglect. Another old man who knew him said:

I remember that man as a boy, and he was one of the brightest boys in the class. He had a good home and a mother who thought the world of him, and made every sacrifice for his comfort and pleasure. He graduated with honor and gave promise of a bright future, but look at him now, hope, ambition, reputation, character, everything gone, and nothing to show for the loss but a wreck tottering on the verge of twine.

There are many wrecks of this kind scattered over the land, and they are found in almost every community. They are simply people who have violated moral law, and are suffering the penalty which invariably follows.

While this class of wrecks excites pity and calls for sympathy, there is another and a larger class, doomed to the same fate, unless checked in their thoughtless career.

There are thousands of young men today who are standing at the threshold of active life, with no regard for responsibility and no thought for the future. Call their attention to the dorelets which obstruct the current, and warn them of the shoals and whirlpools, and they tell you with smiling face, and a confidence, born of youthful egotism, that they are strong enough to stem the tide and skillful enough to navigate any waters.

They believe that they can play with fire without being burned, and neglect opportunities with impunity. It is the same old tragedy which has been played through all the generations.

If the editor of the "Jawbone," from his little corner in the western state can startle the young men within the circle of his influence, and convince them that the harvest is like the seed in kind and character, good results will follow.

It is a popular notion today that the world is awaiting for men who can do things. It is also waiting for young men whose ability to do is founded on thought and observation and who are broad enough to profit by the experience of others.

The harvest will be fruitful by and by if the seed time is not neglected.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE
The Chicago Tribune, while a great newspaper, has long been noted for advocating erratic political measures. The republican party has had but little confidence in the Tribune's loyalty for a dozen years or more. The paper was at one time badly threatened with free trade, and it is much more righteous than the party that it assumes the right of dictation and leadership.

In municipal affairs the Tribune stands for all sorts of impractical reforms and on state issues republican candidates are seldom good enough to command support and after they are elected they are targets for all sorts of abuse. This was true of both Governor Tanner and Governor Yates and Deaneen will trot in the same class if he fails to come up the Tribune pedestal.

Like "Harper's" and "Colliers" the Tribune is troubled with a bump of self-righteousness which prompts it to assume the role of dictator on all political questions. The paper has a theoretical notion of government and it is not at all surprising that, Progressism and La Folletteism appeal to it in strong and convincing terms.

This is why the Tribune is prompted to say editorially.

What La Follette is fighting in Wisconsin is "The System." "The System" consists of big business dovetailed and mortised into politics. It is a substitute for representative government. It is what made it possible for Collier's Weekly to say that Wisconsin was governed by four railroads.

Naturally the only way in which the stalwarts can defend "The System," is by attacking its attackers. To say that the railroads should not be taxed and that the voters should not nominate their own candidates for office would require more courage than can be found west of Philadelphia.

The ignorance displayed might be excused in the Chicago American. What does the Tribune know about political conditions in Wisconsin anyway? The little knowledge possessed was evidently filtered through the fertile brain of Mr. Steffens, who recently aired the governor's grievances through the columns of McClure's magazine.

A little investigation below the surface, would reveal the fact that the railroads have been paying half the taxes of Wisconsin for many years, and that they are contributing more to the industrial development of the state than all other sources combined.

There is quite a respectable element in the state, which, with senators Spooner and Quarles are opposed to Governor La Follette and his methods. The state is entitled to better treatment at the hands of the Tribune.

The game of politics in Wisconsin is getting to be a desperate game, and the destiny of the republican party is now in the hands of the Supreme court.

The sewer contractor has been up against a hard proposition. Court street turns out to be a sand hill and a ditch without curbing is impossible.

PRESS COMMENT

Madison Journal: No matter how many La Follette men have signed a letter to chairman Cortelyou, pledging themselves to abide by the decision of the supreme court, it will be noticed that no man is desperate enough to charge the governor with having signed a manifesto.

La Crosse Chronicle: Rose, that Michigan student who announced that he would whip champion Jeffries when school closed next spring probably aspires to be another "gentleman Jim." And if he goes into the prize-fighting business he will go the same route and have the same bad finish.

Port Washington Star: Gov. La Follette has lost a valuable opportunity (which Mr. Cook has improved) and one which many of his friends had hoped he would take advantage of. He will find, if the decision shall be against him, that a large number of people will desert him. The people generally believe that of the two men, Mr. Cook has set up the better standard and is the better man.

Hudson True Republic: In one of his auto speeches the governor declared that Mr. Bryan had been a political blessing to the country. Yet when in Hudson four years ago he devoted half of a long speech to vilifying Bryan. In that tour he was trying to draw votes from the stalwarts, while he is now trying to get aid from the Bryan wing of the Democracy. The incident shows how much truth and sincerity there is in his preaching. These are the flimsy grounds upon which the La Follette reforms are based.

Oshkosh Northwestern: The Neenah News refers to the recent republican convention in this county as an "old-time love feast." And is it might have been if the La Follette pushers had not insisted in bringing up the old factional fight at every opportunity that was offered. Instead of being content with showing themselves to be just plain republicans and more interested in the success of the party than with the political fortunes of a man who has striven with might and main to disrupt the party and bring it to disgrace and possible defeat.

Wausau Herald: One of the accomplishments of Democratic administration of this government that all democrats are proud of is the establishment of rural free delivery of mail. The first move for rural mail delivery was made in congress by representative L. F. Livingston, of Georgia, 1892, but the republican majority defeated it and it was not until 1896 under postmaster-general Wilson, Democrat, that the first rural routes were established. During the years 1896-97 eighty-four rural routes were established. While democrats in congress were working to improve conditions for the common people of this country the republicans were busy plotting ship subsidy schemes for the shipping trust and tariff robbery for the steel trust, coal trust and all the others of the trust tribe.

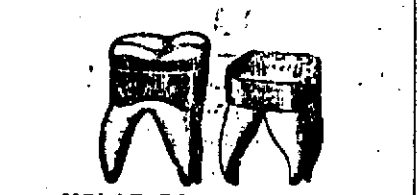

Literary Note
Goldwin Smith, whose authoritative papers upon historical subjects are now too rarely seen, has, in the September Atlantic, under the title of "The Great Puritan," a notable study of Oliver Cromwell. Taking into consideration all of the ample literature which has recently been published about Cromwell, the author constructs what is perhaps the most convincing and satisfactory portrait of the man and the leader that has been seen. It is in every way an important and interesting paper which every serious reader will wish to read and re-read.

Dr. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder

Each time the United States Government has officially tested the baking powders the report has shown Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder to be of superlative leavening strength, free from alum, absolutely pure and wholesome.

This is gratifying, for Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is depended upon by millions of people to raise their daily bread.

NOTE.—These Government inquiries also developed the fact that there are many mixtures upon the market made in imitation of baking powder, but containing alum or other caustic acid, whose use in food is dangerous.

SUCCESS.
Here is the secret of success: Make the things you want your pleasure.
Make the sacrifice for what you desire, and not only you get your desire, but the sacrifice becomes a pleasure.
This can be done in short cut methods.
Regard not only the object of your desires with pleasure but all that leads to the fulfillment of that object.
If there are rooms to be swept in order that the house shall be as dainty as you want it, regard every stroke of the broom as a blessing, a boon, a privilege.
If there is time to be given to the mastery of a problem think of every moment thus spent as a privilege, a blessing, and a boon.
If there is money to be given to obtain your desire give it with royal joy that it has the power to buy.
If there is patience to be given be glad that patience means victory.
If there is humility to be given rejoice with exceeding joy that humility is triumphant.

If courage is to be given send forth your courage like a gay and invincible army.
This creates art out of drudgery. It makes masters out of laborers.
It makes rulers out of slaves.
And it is as practical and easy as the familiar process with a log.
In discussing in patent law one of the most prosperous of women in that business has advised beginners to read the technical papers on new patents. She said many beginners did not, because the reading looked uninteresting, but that if they would only keep on with the ultimate object in view it grew more and more interesting and finally became real pleasure.
This idea is something that can be applied to every detail of every life.

MERRY THOUGHTS.
Be nobody else but you.
A word to the unwise is superfluous.
When in doubt, don't even whisper.

OLDEST TOBACCO GROWER IN STATE

WILLIAM POMEROY INTRODUCED IT IN OHIO AND WISCONSIN.

WAS FIRST RAISED IN FULTON

Tobacco Now Is Staple and Profitable Product of Both Ohio and Wisconsin.

It is an honor that falls to the lot of but a few to introduce into a country an industry that greatly influences the material prosperity for the good. One of the oldest and the most profitable industries of Rock county is the culture of leaf tobacco. The first crop was raised in 1854 by Wm. Pomerooy of this city. In the town of Fulton which always has been and is still the tobacco township for tobacco on a field comprising six acres. Besides the credit of in-roducing tobacco in Rock county he was the pioneer raiser in Ohio and Wisconsin. Mr. Pomerooy raised the first in Wisconsin on Syene Prairie, county near Carlton in 1838 and the first in Wisconsin on Syce Prairie, Dane county, in 1852, and he has been a raiser and dealer for over fifty years.

WILLIAM POMEROY

Mr. Pomerooy was born in Suffield, Connecticut, in 1824, where he was reared on his father's farm and was accustomed to tobacco culture from the time he was twelve years old. He was educated in the common and select schools of Suffield. In 1838 he moved to Ohio where he engaged in the industry that has won for him so much merited praise. On February 18, 1851 he was married at Blenheim, Conn., to Mrs. Luza Ailing Pomerooy. In the spring of 1851 he, accompanied by his wife, came to Wisconsin, raising tobacco on Syene Prairie that season and settling in Fulton in the next year.

From these ten acres, tobacco has become a staple product of a extensive region and its handling gives profit and employment to many thousands. Mr. Pomerooy retired from farming in 1872 and purchased a beautiful home on Pleasant street where he has since resided. Many successful tobacco growers in Rock county have become such by following his wise counsel regarding the cultivation of the plant and the care of the leaf.

Mr. Pomerooy is of distinguished lineage, being a direct descendant of Ralph Pomerooy who accompanied William the Conqueror on his Norman conquest of England, and was knighted for services rendered. Mr. Pomerooy is the eighth generation from Eldad Pomerooy who came from England in 1630 and was one of the founders and proprietors of Dorchester, Mass. His grandfather, Nathaniel, was an aide to General Seth Pomerooy, a great uncle of William Pomerooy, in the Continental army.

DEMIES TO HOLD LOVE FEAST NOW

Andrew Jensen of Edgerton, To Be the Guest of Honor at Banquet at Myers House

This evening the democratic county committee will be the hosts at a banquet at the Myers house given in honor of Andrew Jensen of Edgerton, who is the democratic nominee for state treasurer. Covers for thirty will be laid and George Sutherland will act as toastmaster. In the postprandial celebration, invitations were sent to ex-Senator Vilas of Madison, General Doz of Milwaukee, nonette for (b)rdor George W. Peck of Milwaukee and Mr. Clancy of Stoughton. Mr. Clancy is the only one who is able to accept and he will be the principal speaker of the evening. Among the other speakers who address the gathering are Dr. J. B. Whiting, Attorney J. J. Cunningham, A. N. Bort of Beloit and Robert Richmond of Evansville.

Black Absorbs Heat.

A French authority had two thermometers—one of ordinary glass, the other painted black—placed in the sun. In the white glass the mercury rose to 144. Under the black paint it went up to 157 in the same position. The inference is that people who wear black coats are warmer in the sunshine than those who dress in white.

Reading With a Purpose.

Reading without purpose is sauntering, not exercise. More is got from one book on which the thought settles for a definite end in knowledge, than from libraries skimmed over by a wandering eye. A cottage flower gives honey to the bee, a king's garden none to the butterfly.—Lord Lytton.

HELD LOVE FEAST AT COURT HOUSE

DEMOCRATS NOMINATE RICHMOND FOR STATE SENATOR.

EVERYTHING CUT AND DRIED

Clark Palmer of Lima, Chosen for the First Assembly District.

It was an old-time love feast. Everything was cut and dried long before Mr. Thorpe of Milton called the convention to order. It was a mere matter of form that George Sutherland should arise and place in nomination the name of Robert Richmond of Evansville for state senator on the democratic ticket. It was another matter of form that his nomination should be seconded by Peter J. Mount and the secretary instructed to cast the ballot of the convention for Mr. Richmond for state senator. The nomination of Clark Palmer of the first assembly district was another cut and dried affair and everything went off as smoothly as though at a church meeting.

Adjourned Meeting
The adjourned senatorial convention of the twenty-second senatorial district was called to order by Chairman R. M. Richmond of Evansville. Feeling that it might be inconvenient to preside over a meeting which nominated him for office, Mr. Richmond asked that a chairman pro tem be appointed. D. E. Thorpe of Milton was chosen and E. H. Ryan of Janesville was chosen secretary. George Sutherland then made a short address in which he nominated Mr. Richmond and Peter J. Mount recorded the nomination, and Mr. Sutherland moved the secretary to cast the ballot of the convention for Mr. Richmond. Mr. Richmond then accepted the honor in a few well chosen words and the convention adjourned sine die on motion of Peter J. Mount.

Assembly Convention
The first assembly district then held their convention to nominate a candidate for the legislature to oppose A. S. Baker of Evansville. D. E. Thorpe of Milton presided and George Harry of Edgerton was chosen secretary. Frank Morris then nominated Clark Palmer of Lima and the convention adjourned.

The senatorial delegates from this city are as follows: Harry Garbutt, W. A. Johnson, Wm. Smith, Frank George, Geo. M. McKee, O. A. Oestreich, H. Burges, Wm. Kuhlow, J. B. McLean, Geo. Tanberg, James Sennett, W. L. Stoddard, E. P. Wixon, J. W. Richardson, E. H. Ryan, Warren Skelly, F. P. Burpee, Ed. Murphy, Geo. Croft, and P. J. Mount.

HAVE RETURNED WITHOUT BARREL

DEMOCRATIC LEADER RYAN HAS NOT THE DESIRED FUNDS.

FEW HEAR ADDRESSES NOW

Decision of the Supreme Court is Waited Anxiously—La Follette To Help Fusion.

Milwaukee, Sept. 24.—I would like to call attention of every voter in Rock county to the paragraph Lincoln Steffens wrote on Wisconsin politics which appeared in the Milwaukee Leader after discussing the campaign of 1900 Mr. Steffens says relative to leading republicans going to the La Follette side of the fence: "Others followed, but not Spooner, Payne and Pfister, not yet. They brought out for the nomination John M. Whitehead, as state senator with a clean reputation and a good record." Speaking of the Steffens article I should like to predict that something is going to drop mighty quick. Just what form Spooner and Quarles' anger will take can not be said, but both men are angry at the imputations which have been cast at their character. Steffens overstepped his instructions and he may have delivered a boomerang upon the La Follette leaders. The secretary of state is to be asked some mighty embarrassing questions before the campaign is a week older, that will take all the sagacity of the little reformer to evade answering.

Ryan is Back
T. E. Ryan is back in Milwaukee. He has come minus the barrel for the campaign of the great unwashed, but he is as full of promises as a small boy being whipped. He has a long list of speakers who will journey into Badgerdom to help carry the state for the democrats and promises of support when the time comes. Meanwhile the democrats must dig down in their own pockets and help pay the workers themselves. Ryan is jubilant over the prospects. He does not see just at the present moment how the democrats can possibly lose. After November 8th he will have explanations to make. Ryan is to talk in the state for his old friend—George W. Peck. It will go against his interests to talk against the governor as it is rumored from Lincoln on official authority that La Follette will stop his abuse of the conservative republicans in Wisconsin for a time, will let the club Roosevelt and La Follette clubs, in Badgerdom and he himself west to stump Nebraska in the interests of the fusion democratic ticket against the republicans; George W. Peck, the candidate for this faction, is asking for election on the same grounds that La Follette is at the present time; only under a different party name.

State Issues.

Governor LaFollette spoke at Oconomowoc last night. He had advertised his meeting as a Roosevelt and La Follette meeting, but some way or other he forgot to mention Roosevelt at all. It was merely an oversight, but still a fact that cannot be disputed. Charles A. McGee, one of the governor's young disciples, spoke to a hundred people at Monroe last evening and little enthusiasm was shown at any time. In the arrangement for the meeting none of the county committeemen were consulted and they feel justly aggrieved. The decision of the supreme court will decide a much vexed question next Tuesday. In the interview recently published in the New York World M. G. Jeffris says that the decision cannot be in favor of La Follette and if the court holds it has no jurisdiction the fight will go on to the bitter end. The Gazette published the same interview on the Thursday previous to its being published in the World Friday. This sentiment meets with approval all over the state. Fight to the end is the slogan from now on.

TOMORROW'S GAME PROMISES WELL

Janesville Players Will Meet the Rockford Three III Leaguers Again.

Baseball enthusiasts will see a good game at Yost park tomorrow afternoon. The Rockford III league team crosses bats again after having been considerably strengthened. In line-up since their appearance here a week ago. "Rusty" Owen, the new manager and captain, is considered the best pitcher of the III league and played with Minneapolis and Duquesne teams last season. He is to pitch tomorrow and has been signed with the Rockford team for next season. Alken, the former boy, will pitch for Janesville and Cal Broughton will occupy his regular position behind the bat. The Rockford team says that tomorrow's game will be a matter of how large a score can be run up by them. Janesville will have something to say in this regard. The Rockford players are as follows: Showers, Meek, Hines, Nichols, Owens, Householder, Allen, Miller, Melvin. Interurban cars run every half hour to the grounds.

DONATE $450 TO THE MADISON BUILDING

Local Members of the Y. M. C. A. Contribute Generously to New Building at Madison.

About $450 has been donated by the members of the local Y. M. C. A. for the construction of a new $75,000 building to be erected by the Madison association. Secretary Kline stated today that he was proud of the good showing that the local association had made with a generous response of $450, which was far ahead of cities much larger in size throughout the state. Plans for the erection of new quarters for Madison Y. M. C. A. on the University of Wisconsin grounds were selected last evening at a meeting of the state board association held at the Hotel Piquet, Milwaukee.

LITTLE FRANCE

A ROMANCE OF THE DAYS WHEN "THE GREAT LORD HAWKE" WAS KING OF THE SEA

BY CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Author of "Commodore Paul Jones," "Reuben James," "For the Freedom of the Sea," etc.

Copyright, 1901, by H. Appleton & Co., New York.

"Ah, madame, I know not! Yonder upon Le Four lie the remains of his ship. We have had no speech with them for two days. The boats of the Union, however, are now taking off the men. We will have a report presently. But you, madame, where were you, may I ask?"

"I was on Le Thesee, sir, with my grandfather, the Marquis de Chabot-Rohan."

"My poor child!" exclaimed the admiral. "They are all gone, sir, are they not? Were any of them saved?" she asked him piteously.

"None! None! How terrible for you!"

"Yes, monsieur, and if I have not my husband, I am indeed lost."

"Pray God he may be saved, madame. And how did you escape?"

"This old man," she said, turning to Jean-Renaud, "seized me in his arms, leaped with me into the sea, and Monsieur Hatfield, my husband's friend, picked us up."

"You have done well, my brave man," said the admiral in French, turning to Jean-Renaud, and reaching out his hand.

"No, Monsieur l'Amiral," said the old Breton, shaking his head, tears falling from his eyes, "my master is gone and I am here. He bade me take mademoiselle. He went down with the ship, and I was not there."

"But you saved the mistress," continued the admiral. "Twas an heroic deed."

"You will not hold him prisoner, sir?" asked Anne anxiously.

"Madame," said Hawke, "he is as free as the air. He shall be set ashore where and when he wills."

"No, Mademoiselle Anne," returned the old man mournfully, "they are all gone of the old house I serve, but you, I must stay with you while I am here. Where you go, I go. I could not live and not serve the de Rohans. I am your man now until the end."

"Be it so," said Anne, extending her hand to him. "I stay here until—until—"

"Will you not come into my cabin?" asked the admiral kindly, "and wait there? I shall have news presently, and it will be brought to you at once."

"No, sir," answered Anne resolutely, "I would rather stay here. I can at least look at his ship."

"A boat from the Union, sir, coming on board," reported the officer of the watch. "There are some of the officers of the Torbay in her. I recognize them, sir."

"Is one of them—my husband?" cried Anne.

"Your husband, madame?"

"Capt. Grafton," explained Hawke. "No, madame," answered the young officer, looking at her sadly.

In another moment the first lieutenant of the Torbay stepped up to the admiral and saluted. He was haggard and broken from loss of sleep, exposure, responsibility and anxiety.

"Sir," he said, "I have to report the loss of the ship to the command of which I succeeded on the night of the battle, Capt. Grafton."

Hawke raised his finger warningly, but before the lieutenant realized the situation Anne grasped him by the arm.

"What of him?" she cried.

The officer looked from one to the other in great bewilderment.

"Speak out now, man," said Hawke impatiently. "The tale must be told now."

"He was washed overboard when we struck Le Four and we have not seen him since, sir."

Without a moan or cry Anne sank to the deck at the feet of the old admiral. Stopping over her slight form he lifted her up himself as easily as if she had been his own child—his daughter. He carried her to his cabin, where he sent the surgeon and the old chaplain to her. They were not able to do much with her. When consciousness came back it brought such agony to her that she longed and hoped for death. The admiral visited her again, told her he had directed inquiries to be made as to whether any of the other ships had picked her husband up, bade her not despair. In short, the grim old warrior was as tender of her as a father, as gentle to her as a woman.

As the morning wore on communication was had with Le Formidable, and from her news of Grafton's safety secured. Hawke himself carried the news to the devoted woman, who revived so much on receipt of the tidings that she inquired upon going aboard the captured ship at once. By the admiral's direction his own barge, which had been uninjured in the battle, was called away and placed at her disposal. Hatfield accompanied her.

"Tell him from me," said Hawke, as he bade her good-bye at the gangway, "that he did magnificently. I marked his course. I saw his fighting. England shall hear of it. Tell him, too, not to worry over the loss of his ship. It was a thing that might have happened to any one. I am thankful we got off so easily." He stopped and looked gravely yet kindly at her, laying his hand on her head—she seemed to remind him of his own daughter. "Tell him, also, that the best share of the victory and the greatest prize has fallen to him since he has you. They tell me he is desperately wounded and unconscious, but you will revive him and bring him to life if anything can. Don't give way. He needs you now. I don't wonder he fought as he did!

"Twas not for England only, but for his wife as well—and such a wife! You must bring him back to the Royal George when you can, and come back yourself if you stay with him."

"I shall never leave him again, monsieur," she murmured. "Whom have I now but him? I thank you; you have been good to me. I shall not forget it."

She seized his hand, and before he could withdraw it, much to his embarrassment she carried it to her lips and was gone.

CHAPTER XXXII.

FROM DEATH UNTO LIFE.

SINCE early morning the surgeons from the English ships had been working with the wounded on Le Formidable, and details of seamen had been working over the ship herself as well, so that, while she was still a picture of ruin and devastation, she was in a very much better condition than she had been. Most of the severely wounded had died in the interim, and their bodies had been cast overboard with as much reverence as the demands of the living and their pressing necessities admitted, which was not much. Those who yet remained alive were fast becoming amenable to a treatment, but the ship itself was a sufficiently ghastly place, in spite of all that had been done for her and for her crew, to have appealed the stoutest heart.

Philip's wife, however, saw nothing of this. There was nothing before her heart but her husband and his welfare. She knew nothing, saw nothing, thought of nothing but him. She had long since passed beyond the normal capacity of humanity to experience suffering—save in so far as he was concerned. Nothing else made any appeal to her tenderness and sensibilities. She had still strength to get to his side; after that—

She sat in the boat, as it made its way toward Le Formidable, with her eyes closed, her lips murmuring prayers. And though her eyes were opened on the ship, it made little difference to her. She stood on the wreck as one blind. Hatfield helped her tenderly over the side, and with a word of explanation to the prize-master took her immediately below to the great cabin.

They had given Grafton the room that had belonged to the brave Admiral du Verger, now peacefully sleeping beneath the waves on the scene of his heroic defence.

As they approached the door Anne could hear her husband's voice. He was alive, then, thank God! Hatfield pushed open the door and she entered. At the head of the berth on a low stool sat a grim old sailor, his face buried in his hands. He lifted his head as they entered, rose to his feet, and stared at her.

"Who he you, ma'am?" he asked.

"I am his wife," she answered, pushing past him toward the berth.

There was her husband. He was white, haggard, and broken. He looked utterly exhausted—dying. The fever which had possessed him had reduced him to the last extremity. His eyes were closed; he was muttering to himself. She bent her head to listen. How the scene in the old house in Quebec came back to her as she saw him lying helpless before her thus again!

"My ship!" he murmured. "My ship! She strikes! Ha! She's going down! Le Thesee! My God, my wife—my wife—have mercy on me! My ship—my wife—pity, O God, my wife—my wife!"

"He's been sayin' them words for three days. 'Tis his wife on the ship all the time," whispered the old sailor to Hatfield.

Anno stared at Grafton in strained silence. He did not know her. Would he ever do so? She thought, if he did not recover consciousness, if he did not cease that unwearying murmur of ship and wife, she would die there before him. She was petrified, appalled, shocked by the cumulative events of the week—tried beyond endurance. She stared longer, growing whiter as she did. Was she dying, too? Well, what mattered it? They would go together. Hatfield saw her away, and not with the motion of the ship. He sprang to her side and caught her by the shoulder. Old Slocum took her by the hands.

"Ma'am," he said in his rude way, tears filling his eyes, "I knowed him when he was a baby. I sailed with his father. Pull yourself together and speak to him. If you don't call him back again he's gone. The doctor says he can't do nuthin' more for him. Speak to him, fer God's sake, ma'am!"

Anno roused herself with a last desperate effort—summoned the vestiges of her resolution once more, and, as she thought, for the last time—stepped nearer to Grafton, laid her hand upon his brow, and bent her lips low toward him.

"Philip!" she whispered. "Philip, O Philip! My husband!"

He heard the unfamiliar sound. His babbling ceased. He opened his eyes and lay strangely still, looking at her.

"Little France," he whispered, "is it thou?"

"I, indeed, Philip!" cried the girl.

"My wife!" he murmured.

"Yes, yes, now and forever! O Philip, Philip, I called to God out of the deep and He heard me! We will never be parted."

"You have called me back to life," he murmured.

She laid her head upon his breast, as she had done many times before in Canada. He closed his eyes. Had he fainted? But, no, she felt the pressure of his hand. He would recover now. It needed no other skill than that supplied by her loving heart to assure her of that. He had grown strangely calm in her presence. Her own strength came back to her before his weakness. She seemed to lift him up to life and love again. The silence in the cabin was broken only by the sound of the waves rushing along the side, the creaking and groaning of the timbers from the uneasy pitching of the ship.

Hatfield beckoned old Slocum, and the two men slipped noiselessly out. "I guess he don't want me no more, sir," said the old sailor, sadly, as he stepped out of the cabin, "ah! I took keer on him w'en he was a baby."

"And I lost my ship, darling," whispered Philip at last, all the sorrow of a sailor and a captain in his voice.

"Yes, but the admiral said you had done nobly and you were not to mind. He would see."

"Ah, he is a kindly man!"

"He was kind to me, too. And I am grateful."

"And I, too."

College Football Prospects

Captains Say Their Men Are the "Best Ever."

"Look Out For Columbia," Says Morley.

Coach Yost of Michigan Also Optimistic.

Practically all of the captains of the college football squads announce bright prospects. Of course these statements must always be taken with a grain of salt.

CAPTAIN ROBERT H. STANGLAND OF COLUMBIA

two of salt, but at the same time there is every reason to believe that most of the colleges will turn out aggregations much stronger than those of a year ago.

The captains have their men out on their respective fields every day. The dummy is tackled, and there is practice at punting and falling on the ball.

The captains of the several teams have had the first opportunity of the season to size up the men and to get a good idea of the material in them.

Of course there are many of the last year varsity team players back at the old positions this year. Their work of the past is well known. It is now to be developed if they are still up to the game of last season. Then, again, there are a lot of new ones who will come forward looking for the laurels of the gridiron.

Coleb Morley of Columbia is in a cheerful mood and pleased with Columbia's prospect. He says that Columbia's football season this year will surpass all other years of Columbia's career on the gridiron.

Captain Stangland will head the blue and white forces again.

The proposed game with the University of Michigan is the one interesting topic among the Columbia men. It has been practically decided that the great Western university team will meet Columbia on Thanksgiving day. The Columbia games will be played at the American League park, New York.

Captain Foulke of Princeton university is one of the ablest field generals the Jersey men have had since the days of Doc Hillebrand. The Tigers believe he will succeed in turning out a team that will repeat last year's victory over Yale.

Hogon, the redoubtable linesman, is captain of the Yale team.

Hogon is one of the greatest tacticians and one of the strongest guards America has.

The style of forward usually selected at New Haven is better fitted for this style of attack than perhaps those of any other eleven.

Without doubt the Yale coaches have something of a problem to solve this year, but to make a guess at the New Haven style of offense it would seem that, while somewhat modified, it will remain somewhat more noticeably massed than that of any other of the big eleven.

WANT CANTILLON.

May Succeed Armour as Manager of Cleveland Americans.

If the plans of the owners of the Cleveland American League club do not miscarry, Joe Cantillon of Chicago and at present manager of the Milwaukee club will succeed Armour as manager of the Cleveland club.

The only obstacle is Cantillon's close friendship with Charles Haveron, who owns the Milwaukee club, and who is on record as saying that he will sell the club the moment his manager leaves him.

Somerset and Kilfoyl, the owners of the Cleveland club, are eager to get Cantillon and will make him a tempting offer.

Detroit's Big Campaign Fund.

The Detroit ball club is spending over $25,000 for new players for next year.

Sincerity.

Sincerity is like traveling in a plain, beaten road, which commonly brings a man much sooner to his journey's end than by ways, in which men often lose themselves.

contest Dewitt, the giant Princetonian who played opposite him, succeeded in outmaneuvering Hogan.

"Hurry Up" Yost, Michigan's famous football coach, is in Ann Arbor to consult with Manager, Hald in regard to the eleven's preliminary training. He issued a call for the squad to report at Whitmore Lake, Mich., and they will remain there until further notice.

Yost says six of the old men—Captain Heston, Curtis, Schubert, Lammond, Longman and Narocross—will be back, but he denies that he has any phenomenal new men up his sleeve.

The most promising of the new men who will enter the university are Ben in of Orchard Lake and Cook of the Cleveland university school, both of them 200 pounders. Deschler of Alma college, who was ineligible last year, will be out this fall, and he will probably be tried at center or on the line.

Ralph Rose, the shot-put champion, has expressed his intention of trying for football honors, and Yost says he ought to make good. He does not believe that Rose's height of six feet six inches will handicap him.

Yost is optimistic over Michigan's chances and thinks they should again have a winning team. His remarks are a distinct handicap that on account of the late date for the opening of college Michigan had to begin actual practice behind her powerful rival. Especially will this operate in favor of Wisconsin, whose game with Michigan comes early in the season.

The University of Missouri's football schedule for the season of 1904 has been completed as follows:

Oct. 1—Kirksville Normal at Columbia.
Oct. 7—Bryant college at Columbia.
Oct. 15—Hawell Indiana at Kansas City.
Oct. 20—Indiana university at Columbia.
Oct. 25—Purdue university at St. Louis.
Nov. 5—Washington university at St. Louis.
Nov. 12—St. Louis university at Columbia.
Nov. 19—Washington college at Columbia.
Nov. 21—Kansas university at Kansas City.

With the return to Ithaca of Glenn (Pop) Warner, Cornell looms up as the team most likely to spring surprises in their offensive play. Weight will be lacking, and craft must take its place. This is Warner's forte, and he will be watched perhaps more closely than any other man handling a first class team.

Yale's offense this year will doubtless undergo modifications. So much use was made of Hogan last season and so steady a ground runner was he, that it would seem more than possible the New Haven coaches will work him quite as hard another season, even though it become necessary to plug up his line position with a heavy back.

In a word, the strategists believe that Yale will work harder than any other team to retain as much of the old "tacklesnack" formation as possible.

Undoubtedly another feature of Yale's offense will be the quick opening in the line, through which a comparatively light and speedy back is flung in the hope that the secondary defense may be smothered and a clear field result.

The style of forward usually selected at New Haven is better fitted for this style of attack than perhaps those of any other eleven.

Without doubt the Yale coaches have something of a problem to solve this year, but to make a guess at the New Haven style of offense it would seem that, while somewhat modified, it will remain somewhat more noticeably massed than that of any other of the big eleven.

If the plans of the owners of the Cleveland American League club do not miscarry, Joe Cantillon of Chicago and at present manager of the Milwaukee club will succeed Armour as manager of the Cleveland club.

URGES THE WOMEN TO STRIKE

Temperance Orator Advocates That Means to Compel Equal Suffrage.
Now Castle, Pa., Sept. 24.—Mrs. Charles W. Foulke of this city was the principal speaker at the twenty-first annual convention of the Lawrence County Woman's Christian Temperance union. She advocated a strike among the married women if their husbands refused to give them the right of franchise so that they, the women, could vote down the liquor traffic. In part she said: "If the men do not recognize our rights to political suffrage the women should retaliate by refusing to cook for the men. In this manner the men will soon be brought to time and will recognize a woman's power."

WILLS BRAIN TO UNIVERSITY

Dead Doctor Believed Disease Could Be Traced to That Organ.

New York, Sept. 24.—Dr. George S. Conant, aged 51 years, who died here of diabetes, is said to have willed his brain to the medical faculty of Cornell university that further investigation may be made of a theory that his disease could be traced to the brain. He suffered for years and consulted many specialists without obtaining any promise or hope of a cure. Dr. Conant then took up the study of diabetes, using himself as a subject for his experiments. After an exhaustive study he came to the conclusion that the trouble had its root in the brain, which he believed to be affected.

MINERS REJECT THE NEW SCALE

Vote Down Recommendation of National Officers.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 24.—The miners of district No. 19, United Mineworkers, have voted by an overwhelming majority against the acceptance of the operators' proposal to reduce the wage scale about 7 per cent. The official count of the vote is 1,649 votes against acceptance and 569 in favor of accepting. Of the subordinate unions in the district thirty voted against acceptance while twelve favored the reduction. The national officers of the United Mineworkers recommended that the proposition be accepted.

Legislator Is Unseated.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 24.—E. J. Davis, commissioner of crown lands and a member of the Ontario legislature, has been unseated as a result of a petition against his return for North York at the by-election in February, 1903.

Komp Is Released on Bond.

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 24.—Frank S. Komp, president of the defunct Kenosha bank, who has been in jail here for several months, was released on $2,500 bail, his Chicago friends furnishing the bond.

That Was Mr. Micawber's Scheme.

The art in life is to sit still and to let things come toward you, not to go after them or even to think that they are in flight. How often I have chased some divine shadow through a whole day till evening, when, going home tired, I have found the visitor just turning away from my closed door.—Arthur Symonds in Saturday Review.

A Birdless World.

A naturalist says that if the world were to become birdless, man could not inhabit it after nine years' time. In spite of all the sprays and poisons that could be manufactured for the destruction of insects, such pests would simply eat up orchards and crops.—Exchange.

Must Purchase Their Wives.

The Bakula of equatorial Africa are excellent hunters, and as soon as they have gathered enough elephants' tusks they exchange them for European merchandise, with which to buy wives. The price of a wife among the Fans of Africa is high and a young man must work a long time in order to accumulate the necessary sum.

Invention of Panama Indians.

We should never have had the Panama hat but for the quick-fingered Indians of the Isthmus of Panama. Even to-day their secret process for seasoning the grass blades used in weaving these hats remains unrivaled. Basketmakers of the same region make baskets which will hold water without leaking—another invention which is quite beyond us.

Curious Palace.

In Segavia, northern Spain, stands one of the most curious structures in the world, a palace that is known as "the house of the points," because its front is carved into innumerable facets.

River Skirts Lake.

One discovery made by an exploring party in Abyssinia recently is that the river Gelo skirts the southernmost extremity of Lake Tana instead of flowing into the lake, as was hitherto believed.

It will burn any kind of fuel nicely.

One ton of hard coal will do the work in my furnace that two tons will in any other furnace made.

One ton of cheap fine coal will do better and more in my furnace than one ton of hard coal in any other furnace on the market.

You can have the cheapest hot water system in connection with my furnace you ever dreamed of, and can pipe the whole house if so desired.

The price of this furnace is within the reach of any man who owns a building, and is way below the cost of any other furnace made.

It will last indefinitely.

I am the inventor, sole owner and manufacturer; that is why prices are so low. Order now while conditions are thus. I guarantee my furnace to do exactly as I say. Write today for circular, descriptive matter and prices.

Chinese Most Spoken Language.

There are 382,000,000 Chinese speaking the same language, making Chinese the most spoken language. There are many dialects, however, which seem scarcely to belong to the same tongue. The inhabitants of Mongolia and Tibet can barely understand the dialect of the people in Peking. Other widely spoken languages are as follows, in millions: English, 120; German, 70; Russian, 68; Spanish, 44; Portuguese, 32.

Babies Carried in Boots.

Gypsies carry their babies in old shawls slung over their shoulders and tied about the waist. North American Indians carry their babies on the backs of squaws—cradle and all. But the Eskimo women of Labrador carry their babies in their boots. There boots come up to the knee and are wide at the top, with a flap in front. In these, the little brown babies live and are happy.

GAS COKE

$7.00 PER TON

THE ideal fuel for furnace, stove and range use. Cheaper than hard coal, and weight for weight will last as long and give more heat. Prepared in sizes for all furnaces and stoves:

EGG COKE

For large furnaces and large heating stoves.

NUT COKE

For small furnaces, stoves and ranges.

Use coke right, and you will prefer it to any other fuel known and save a considerable item in cost over hard coal.

It is cleaner than coal

Quicker to start

Absolutely smokeless

Has very little ash

No Clinkers

Lighter to handle

Gas Coke contains more carbon than hard coal, and being less dense, should be given less draft. This will make the fire last as long as hard coal.
